

TABLE LAMP

Uppingham

Opal Glass & Chrome Bauhaus Table Lamp

Uppingham is a small table lamp, 36 cm tall, in glass and chrome-plated steel, to picture in an entrance hall or a dining room. It brings a calm light there for the evening hours.

WHERE TO PUT IT

At 36 cm, it fits on a narrow console table, a sideboard or in a window recess. Turn it so the chain hangs on the side you come from: you can switch it on in one movement as you pass.

IN DETAIL

The light

The bulb stays hidden behind the opal glass, and the clear glass column glows at the same time. It takes an E27 bulb, and an LED bulb is included. To switch it on, you pull a small chain.

Materials

The shade, 18 cm across, is white opal glass. Beneath it, a clear glass column holds it up, itself set into a base of chrome-plated steel polished like a mirror. These three plain materials, in lines inspired by the Bauhaus, sit as happily with dark antique furniture as in a modern interior.

Fitting

Nothing to install: it is a table lamp, with no fixing to the wall or ceiling. For indoor use.

Indicative measurements: stone, blown glass and wood are natural materials, so no two lights are quite the same.
